WE NOMINATE

Charles William Edwards, one of this nation's far-seeing educational administrators and a Massachusetts Yankee with a rare understanding of the potential, capacities and aspirations of college-bound youngsters, who this month at age 48 reluctantly relinquishes his post as Princeton University's Director of Admission. In resigning from the office he has filled with distinction for some 12 years, and thereby implementing a decision he made several years ago, Edwards—prior to concentrating on family business interests—has accepted two interim assignments: the vice-chairmanship of The Princeton Day Schools and the direction of the Board of Trustees of The Princeton Country Day School.

A native of Dedham, Mass., subsequently a resident of California, and the son of a distinguished member of the Princeton Class of 1906, Edwards has been deeply concerned with the well-being of American education ever since he completed his Princeton undergraduate studies in 1936. He started as a teacher of history in the Noble and Greenough School (Dedham, Mass.), compiled a brilliant record with the American Field Service in the Mediterranean Theaters of Operation, and returned to Princeton in 1945 to help organize the Princeton Program for Servicemen—and to pave the way for unprecedented, ever-growing numbers of Princeton applicants.

Edwards' designation in 1950 as successor to the beloved Radcliffe Heermance, Princeton's first Director of Admission, coincided with "A Revolution on the American Campus." Where the Ivy League in the 1930's had its troubles in unearthing enough qualified applicants, and in the late 1940's was overwhelmed by the recipients of GI benefits, it was confronted in the 1950's with pot-popping pressures generated by articulate, examination-conscious students from all parts of the United States. A rising birth-rate and a national demand for education beyond the high school brought Edwards face-to-face with problems undreamed of by the preceding generation of college administrators.

Princeton's development of admissions principles and practices commensurate with the needs of a booming college-age population is attributable in large measure to Edwards' abilities and perception. Over the past 17 years, President Robert F. Goheen stressed in regretfully announcing Edwards' resignation "he has served as a roving ambassador for Princeton as well as a singularly effective spokesman for higher education. In visiting secondary schools in all sections of the United States, and in annually interviewing and evaluating hundreds of prospective students, he has helped establish new high standards of college counseling."

In an area of specialization in which rapid turn-over has become the rule rather than the exception Edwards is, and has been for several years, "the dean" of the Ivy League's admissions heads and can point to the fact that he has "admitted" well over 10,000 Princetonians—or nearly one-third of Princeton's entire alumni body. Beyond Princeton, Edwards' interests have embraced service on the Executive Committee of the College Entrance Examination Board and its Committees on Examinations and Admissions Procedures, the national vice-presidency of the American Field Service, and a number of assignments as adviser for major scholarship programs initiated and sustained by American industry.

For his trail-blazing efforts in a field of vital significance to education and to our nation; for his willingness to accept what he terms "back-stopping responsibilities" for expanding Princeton schools; for his dedication to Wilsonian ideals of service; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

CONSOLIDATION?

Mayors Disagree. Consolidation, a subject that crosses the political-party line and the Borough-Township line with equal fluidity, did both at Monday night's meeting of Township Committee.

Republican Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman of the Township used the phrase "something less than satisfactory" to describe the study-group proposals made public last week by Republican Mayor Henry S. Patterson of the Borough.

And John Hite, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, said to Republican Mayor Fairman, "I am in the unhappy position of agreeing with you completely."

Meanwhile, John O. Green, Republican candidate for Township Committee, disagreed with Mayor Fairman and announced that he and his running mate, Carl Schafer, welcomed Mayor Patterson's proposals.

The Suggestion. Last week Mayor Patterson released a proposal for "Intermunicipal Cooperation and Study," suggesting the appointment of study groups to make an "unhurried, thoughtful, step-by-step analysis of how our various governmental operations are being conducted and what they are now costing the Borough and the Township (to) provide the basis for a sound decision both for the long-range future of the Borough and the Township and for each of the operations studied."

Mayor Patterson suggested that these groups study areas where "present intermunicipal cooperations can be improved or the particular function placed on a unified operational basis to mutual advantage."

"This is an unsatisfactory type of organization," stated Mayor Fairman. "Unless there is coordination, all these groups will pull apart."

He then proposed a Joint Committee on Municipal Operations to organize each study group as a sub-committee with a specific assignment. The chairmen of these sub-committees would constitute an Advisory Committee responsible for the release of reports. When the studies were complete, these advisers and the Joint Committee would submit a final summary.

While the sub-committees were doing their specific studies, the Joint Committee would be analyzing, projecting future needs, supervising the operation and investigating the possibilities of joint functioning short of political integration.

Citizens' Group. "The Joint Committee should be a citizens' group," Mayor Fairman said. "Borough Council and Township Committee are too busy with day-to-day housekeeping to take on the work."

After Mayor Fairman's statement, each member of Committee—and all are Republicans—spoke his mind on Mayor Patterson's proposals.

"This is the same old business we got from the previous administration," John S. Mount objected. "It aims at creeping consolidation' — disastrous for both Borough and Township; in fact, the route Mayor Patterson proposes leads us nowhere."

Mr. Mount said he was grateful to the Borough for "dragging its feet" because the delay had given him time to consider the question of consolidation at greater length.

A Mistake? "Is it really good for the Township?" asked Mr. Mount. "A study of the pros and cons is essential, but it could be that we would make a big mistake: buying the Borough's dying business district, buying a deteriorating sewer system, deteriorating schools, deteriorating drainage systems, blight and a difficult parking problem.

"Sure, we ought to study consolidation, but Mayor Patterson's proposals aren't a study, they're just two engineers getting together, or two health officers. It's a wholly unsatisfactory proposal, and I am terribly, terribly disappointed."

"It is a serious disappointment to me, too," said Maurice F. Healy. "There is complete absence of the word 'community' in this statement of Mayor Patterson's. The emphasis is on more efficient service only, with the implicit suggestion of a division of community interest, and this is a matter of gravest concern."

"You say 'community' is absent so is the word 'consolidation,'" commented William L. Wilson. "In a community like this, we could get truly distinguished people to serve in a consolidation study, people whose final position would be unassailable, completely objective."

"They don't want objectivity in the Borough," Mr. Mount said.

Mr. Wilson took exception to this remark, saying, "Mr. Mount, you never get a girl to marry you by insulting her!"

That $3,500, Thomas P. Cook suggested that the most practical procedure might be to send Mayor Fairman's proposals to Mayor Patterson.

"How can a reasonable person refuse?" he asked, adding, "Let's be sure to repeat our willingness to provide $3,500 towsrd the study."

At this point, Mr. Green rose from the audience and read a statement prepared by him and his running mate, Carl Schafer, who was also present.

"We welcome the proposals of Mayor Patterson for a series of joint study groups," said Mr. Green. "Here is new evidence of a spirit of cooperation between the two municipalities. It provides a refreshing contrast to the spirit of indifference which has sometimes characterized Borough Hall's approach to such problems in the past several years."

Mr Green and Mr. Schafer expressed the hope that the studies, as they progressed, would lead to a full-scale inquiry into the pros and cons of a merger of Borough and Township, but the two Republican candidates cautioned that patience was required because anything less "might lead to a head-on collision between proponents and opponents of merger."

"Many of our Borough brethren and not a few of our fellow Township residents must be convinced, but they should not be coerced," stated Messrs Green and Schafer. "The obstacles to a single Princeton municipality will come to light and thereby perhaps also reveal the necessary steps to their removal. A good start has been made."

"I disagree," said Mr. Hite. "I would endorse Mayor Fairman's reply, and the notion of a Joint Committee. The Borough will drag its feet, God knows how long. Our approach should be firm."

Mr. Wilson then said that he was on Mr. Green's side.

Both Mr. Hite and Mr Green have been regular attenders at Township meetings and Mr Schafer has come occasionally. William Marvel, Democrat, the fourth candidate, has come rarely but has made his views on consolidation known through letters to TOWN TOPICS.

PERSONALITIES

Nielson Poe, long-time resident of the Nassau Club, one-time athlete and later football coach, who this weekend will participate in an occasion known to relatively few of his fellow men: his 65th reunion at Princeton University. A member of the Class of 1897, a sprightly octogenarian and ao ever-enthusiastic Princetonian whose memory holds minute details of countless scores of athletic events, he typifies all that is delightful about the "Old Guard."

Norman F. Servis, 367 Ewing Street, whose permanent advancement to the rank of detective in the Princeton Township Police Department was confirmed at this week's meeting of the governing body. Now in his eighth year on the force, he underwent a trial period as detective this spring, climaxed several weeks of soiling accomplishment with drawing Chief Campbell's credit for solving two "muggings" perpetrated by four juveniles in the vicinity of College Road.

ROUND-UP

While his Princeton Class (1937) is celebrating the 25th anniversary of its graduation from college this weekend, Harry H Purvis is en route from Princeton to Washington in a canoe named "The Albert Einstein" . . . with a Harvard alumnus as fellow paddler, he seeks to draw attention to the current nuclear tests in the Pacific, has named the craft after the late Princeton physicist because he once warned that "only creation of a supranational judicial and executive body will prevent general annihilation by the hydrogen bomb."

Last week was another without measureable rainfall, and the month of May ended up somewhat below normal — about 20%; . . . on two days, a total of nearly three inches fell, but there was no precipitation at all on 26 of the month's 31 days . . . some homes in outlying areas are still having water problems, and the entire policy of the Princeton Water Company and the Township Committee's attitude toward its shortsightedness are the target of an unusually forthright attack in this week's Mailbox (page 19).

One more reading of 90 was recorded before summer officially begins, making four for the spring season . . . it went into the records last Thursday, during a warmer-than-usual week when the lowest temperature was 50 and the mean generally above the seasonal figure of 68.

Mrs. Seward Johnson, Jr., 75 Cleveland Lane, has reported to Borough Police the loss of a ring holding a square-cut South African diamond which she values at $10,000 . . . Detective Robert McAvenia and Patrolman Douglas Watson search the house and located the setting of the ring (but not the diamond) in a bedroom rug which has a two-inch nap.

And speaking of rings, TOWN TOPICS got a somewhat unusual request to cancel a story this week . . . from a tearful voice which asked, "Please don't carry the announcement of my engagement. I don't think I'm going to get married after all."

This is the month for commencements, diplomas and oratory . . . many a speaker might well condense his advice, as Bob Hope has, to graduates preparing to go out into the wide, wide world. "Don't."

Person To Person

Cory S. Kammler

The other day we got to talking about the progress in transportation, and it is surprising to realize that the bicycle, for example, was not invented until 1816, when in that early model one had to propel himself along with long strides of his feet to the ground. It wasn't until 1876, eighty odd years ago, that the first bicycle somewhat similar to the ones we know today was invented. When we think of the comparative strides we have made in individual transportation in so few recent years, to say it has been revolutionary, is to grossly understate what has taken place. The first internal combustion engine that operated on the atmospheric vacuum principle was also developed in 1876, so we see that development of methods for individual transportation and motive power practically developed side by side although from widely separated beginnings and sources, which in itself is interesting. As you know, our specialization is providing you with the very best transportation you can get, but our responsibility doesn't stop there. We feel that because of the complexities of today's engines and the large share of family earnings that goes into transportation it is a public duty and trust to serve you not only with quality, and skilled mechanics, but to do so on a highly ethical plane. NO. 215 FOR UNIVERSITY

Commencement Schedule Full. With alumni activities (forums, class dinners and reunions) already under way, Princeton University's 215th commencement program will reach its climax Tuesday when 690 members of the Class of 1962 receive their diplomas in front of Nassau Hall.

Saturday will draw the greatest attention from the general public, with thousands watching the traditional p-rade from the campus to Clarke Field, site of the annual Yale-Princeton baseball game. Upwards of 5,000 marchers, many of them gaily-costumed, many bands and a variety of other forms of entertainment will be a part of the always-colorful spectacle.

The route of march will be shorter than last year, when University officials favored a somewhat circuitous approach to the new baseball field east of Palmer Stadium. This June, rather than following Prospect Street to FitzRandolph and doubling back across the athletic fields, the p-rade will turn from Prospect into Roper Lane and make a frontal approach to Palmer Stadium.

Rain? Well, the statistics over a period of 62 years are 6 to 1 against it — and 60 to 1 against a complete washout of the festivities. P-raders have been showered approximately once every ten years, on the average, since the turn of the century. Only once, however, (in 1953) was the entire event cancelled hy a steady downpour.

Honor Class: 1937. The 25-Year Class, out a quarter-century and back this June 300 strong with almost as many wives and many more children, will lead the p-rade. Representatives of classes dating back to the latter years of the 19th century will be among those returning "to the best old place of all."

Continuing the post-World War II tradition of mingling education with the lighter festivities, a series of alumni-faculty forums, open to all, has been scheduled. For the complete list of these events, see Calendar of the Week, page 11

President Robert F. Goheen will deliver the Baccalaureate Address Sunday at 11 in the University Chapel. A Service of Remembrance for 387 alumni who died during the past year will be held there that afternoon at 3.

Class Day exercises on Cannon Green, behind Nassau Hall, are scheduled for Monday, with ROTC commissions, academic and athletic awards to be presented during the morning. The traditional Cannon Exercises, featuring satirical interpretations of episodes in the history of the Class of 1962, are scheduled for Monday afternoon.

Graduation will take place Tuesday at 11 on the front campus (or in Dillon Gymnasium in the event of rain) Degrees at that time will go to the senior class, to those who have completed their course of study at advanced levels, and to some eight or ten distinguished winners of honorary awards.

INAUGURATION CEREMONIES for Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., third president of Westminster Choir College, were held Friday in the University Chapel. Shown after the event are (from left) Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University; Dr. Bristol, and Dr. James M. Hester, president of New York University.

DR. BRISTOL INSTALLED

As Choir College Head. Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., was installed as the third president of Westminister Choir College at ceremonies held Friday in the Princeton University Chapel.

"There are today millions in our land for whom the language of music is still an unknown tongue," Dr. Bristol said in his address "It is Westminster's plan to undertake pilot studies to discover what can be done about problems in these areas."

Among the delegates from churches and leading institutions of learning were James M. Hester, president of New York University; Robert F Goheen, Princeton University president, and the Rev. Dr James L. McCord, president of the Princeton Theological Seminary.

Thirty-seven Westminister students received the degree of bachelor of music, 15 were awarded master's degrees and two received bachelor of music education degrees.

The honorary degree of master of humane letters was awarded to Mary T. Krimmel and LoRean D. Hodapp, for their work as music educators.

"There is still much to be done to improve musical standards in many schools across the country, in rural churches and in homes," Dr. Bristol told the graduates.

Dr. Bristol, 39, is a fifth generation alumnus of Hamilton College. After graduation in 1947, he studied at the University of Geneva. He holds a degree in organ from Trinity College of Music in London and honorary degrees from the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music & Arts, Webber College, Dickinson College, Findlay College and Missouri Valley College. He is president of the Creative Education Foundation and a trustee of the Berkeley Divinity School, New Haven, Connecticut.

A distinguished musician, Dr. Bristol has published works in the choral and organ field and is the author of a biography of Bishop Robert Nelson Spencer, "Seed for a Song."

Dr. Bristol, who has been a trustee of the college since 1957, was formerly with the Bristol Myers Co., founded by his grandfather. He resides with his wife, Louise, and four children at 210 Mercer Street.

"We'll just go on singing," says Mr. Hilbish, "without paying any attention to the audience."

Only $2500 To Go. In the last week, the Choir Fund has picked up $3,000 and now, in the final stretch is within $2,500 of its goal.

"We are redoubling our efforts," reported Gordon Waldron, director of fund-raising activities.

About $13,000 has come to the Fund from people who live in the Princeton community, exclusive of parents whose children are in the Choir, Mr. Waldron said.

"We have had mostly small donations." Mr. Hilbish commented. "They come in with notes saying, 'wish this could be more—delighted to be part of this worth-while event.'"

Mr Hilbish said he felt that this kind of giving was more heartening than any large corporate donations would have been because it showed that Princeton as a whole was behind the Choir.

EXERCISES AT SEMINARY

Degrees to 162. Princeton Theological Seminary held its 150th annual commencement exercises Tuesday in the Princeton University Chapel, awarding 162 degrees. The Rev. Dr. Franklin C. Fry, President of the United Lutheran Church in America, and President of the Lutheran World Federation, was the speaker.

Dr. Fry asserted that the main goal of Christianity is to raise men to the stature of sons of God. "The security of law and order, the decline of juvenile delinquency are not the primary goals of Christian faith, nor—dare I say it?—is the free enterprise system, not even the defense of democracy," he declared.

The commencement exercises climaxed a three-day program which included an address by Henry R. Luce, Editor-in-Chief of Time, Inc., and another by the Rev. Dr. Eugene C. Blake, Stated Clerk of the United Presbyterian Church. Mr. Luce spoke Monday evening on "The Challenge to the Church," while Dr. Blake gave the Baccalaureate address Sunday in The First Presbyterian Church.

Seventy-nine graduates received the bachelor of divinity degree, and the majority of them will be ordained as Christian ministers during the coming year. Sixteen others received the degree of master of religious education, and will become directors of Christian education programs in churches and schools. Graduate theological degrees of master of theology went to 56, while 11 others became doctors of theology.

News Of The THEATRES

"FOILED AGAIN!"

"Druokard" Here. Led into the abyss of drink by a dastardly lawyer with an eviction notice in his hand, but redeemed in time to take a bow at the final curtain, Donald G Warnock, Jr., will portray Edward Middleton, "the drunkard," in the Community Players' production of the 19th century classic.

"The Drunkard" will open next Thursday at 8:30 in Murray Theatre and will play next Friday and Saturday and the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 21, 22 and 23.

To relieve the unbearable tension brought about by watching the throes of DT's and weeping over the loyal wife reduced to taking in washing, Murray Theatre audiences will have an intermission "olio" (literally, a medley or potpourri) featuring dazzling dancers and soft-voiced singers.

Four Princeton housewives (Joyce Laxer, Sally Roberts, Suzi Marzoni, Peggy Bayer, plus a friend from Cranbury (Scottie Michael) will perform a daring can-can. Doug Stender and Rosalie Clark will render "Bird In a Gilded Cage," "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" and "Please Go Way and Let Me Sleep."

Tim Barron, Berry Hoffman and Mary Bayer will execute a soft-shoe dance and the Palmer Squares, directed by Watt Stewart, will be singing waiters.

STAFF ANNOUNCED

For McCarter. The line-up for the 1962-63 season at McCarter Theatre has been set and staff assignments have been made.

Milton Lyon, who has been titular head of McCarter, will now be producer, taking over production duties performed during the past season by Brooks Jones, in addition to the duties he already has.

With Mr. Lyon will be two associate producers: Arthur Lithgow, who will be in charge of the schools program, and Rod McManigal who will handle staff and promotion.

Mr. Lithgow will go out into the field, lecturing at schools throughout the state, arranging for skeleton companies to perform at various schools, and so on.

Mrs. Marguerite McAneny will remain as general manager and Hugh Hardy will continue to be artistic co-ordinator. The appointment of A. Munroe Wade as co-ordinator for the McCarter Guild was announced last week.

The theatre will not be dark during the summer because Mr. McManigal and Mr. Wade will both be on hand part-time. Mr. Lyon will direct nine shows at the Sacramento, California, Music Circus and Mr. Lithgow will join the newly formed Cleveland Shakespeare Festival as producer-director for the summer.

THREE, RARELY DONE

At Murray Theatre. Staged as a showcase for Reunion Weekenders, but open to townsfolk as well, three one-act plays will be offered this Friday and Saturday at Murray Theatre, curtain at 8:30.

Presented under the banner of Theatre Intime and McCarter Theatre, the three offerings are one-act plays which most theatre-goers never have a chance to see "Calvary," a verse-drama by W. B. Yeats; "X. O." by John Drinkwater, and "Passion, Poison and Petrefaction," by Bernard Shaw

Brooks Jones, directing "Calvary," has employed dancers to portray the gamblers who cast lots for Christ's garments. Gus Solomons has choreographed the work and will serve as the lead dancer. Active with many dance groups, he will dance this summer in a revival of a Ted Shawn ballet at Jacob's Pillow, and will perform at the Boston Arts Festival later in the season.

Other dancers in the Yeats play will be Cora Cahan, Jane Kominsky and Toni Lactva, all of whom have assignments with various dance groups

News Of The Theatres

Miss Cahan will be remembered as a cast member in last winter's "Dark of the Moon," given in McCarter.

In the Drinkwater play, audiences will have a chance to hear music composed by Milton Babbitt of Princeton on RCA's electronic synthesizer. Professor Babbitt is one of two Princeton faculty members working at the Electronic Music Center of Princeton and Columbia on a Rockefeller grant.

The Shaw and Drinkwater plays will share four actors who will have a chance, in these two widely different plays, to show how versatile undergraduate talent can be.

Tickets for "Reunion Showcase" are available at the University Store, the McCarter box-office and at the door of Murray Theatre this Friday and Saturday. All seats are reserved, and are $2 each.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Lonely Are The Brave (June 6-9) tells, in simple and direct terms, of a wandering cowboy whose deep, almost obsessive desire for freedoms and the open spaces of the west leads him into trouble. It is an unusual and moving picture, based on the novel, "The Brave Cowboy," by Edward Abbey. It was photographed in Albuquerque and the nearby Sandia Mountains. The scenic effects are utterly breath-taking.

Kirk Douglas brings all his expected rugged vigor to the role of the cowboy, aided most capably by Walter Matthau, as the sheriff whose duty forces him into all-out pursuit. Gena Rowland is effective in her brief role as the wife of Douglas' good friend, Michael Kane, with indication that Douglas and she had been in love, but freedom meant more to Douglas than love. Comment: a warm, compelling story.

Jessica (June 10-12) is a beautiful American widow who settles down as a midwife in a small Italian village. The women become unsettled because their husbands cast glances of desire every time the midwife (played by Angie Dickinson) passes by on her motor scooter. Aware that with proper absistence on their part, there will be no offspring, and hence no need for a midwife, the women band together in true Lysystrata tradition.

Maurice Chevalier plays the priest of the village, Agnes Moorhead is one of the matriarches of the town; Danielle De Metz is her granddaughter, and Antio Antonio Cifariello is the latter's fiance. Jean Negulesco directs with sly humor, and Chevalier, of course, sings several tunes with his usual charm. Comment: beautiful scenery, skillful cast.

Experiment In Terror (June 13-19) stars Glenn Ford and beautiful Lee Remick in a thriller which ranges from San Francisco's plush spots to Chinatown. The story is one of those cat-and-mouse games between a psycopathic killer and the police.

Blake Edwards, who produced, has directed at a swift and dynamic pace that makes more imaginative use of settings than any picture of this type since "North By Northwest." Glenn Ford plays the stalwart FBI man and Lee Remick is the lovely pawn of both criminal and police. Ross Martin as the killer, gives excellent support. Comment: absorbing suspense show, notable most of all for its keen sense of "place."

THE GARDEN

Make Mine A Double (June 6-12) is a superb British satire. It's about a humble washroom attendant, Brian Rix, who is suddenly thrust forth into prominence and the world accords him honors. This is another of those comedies which restore faith in "merrie" old England.

The story is set in World War II. A farmer's wife finds an unexploded buzz bomb one evening and reports it to the authorities. Air Vice-Marshall Sir Cecil Parker calls in the country's top Secret Service man, Wing Commander Brian Rix (he essays a double role, incidentally), a much decorated hero.

Wing Commander Rix decides to fly into enemy-occupied France suggesting to Parker than an exact "double" go to North Africa. The "double" is Airman Rix, washroom or-

NEW SHOP OPENS

With Crafts. Once you pass the sergeants-at-arms that guard, with Revolutionary zeal, the doorway to Queenstown Craft, you find yourself in a pleasingly cool and spacious room devoted to the display and sale of regional handcrafts, ranging from smocked dresses for toddlers to pine corner cupboards for china collectors.

Mrs. Wetherill, who owns the shop, has invited many potters, needlewomen and craftsmen from the Pennington-Princeton area to contribute their skills, and she specializes in the kind of custom work that these craftsmen know so well how to execute.

Buy a jug, lamp, for instance, with a homespun shade and a base showing a spread American eagle in red, white, blue and antique gold, or three Continentals like the ones that guard the doorway.

To match your lamp, you might like a five-foot coffee table, wide and sturdy enough to be used as a bench, and available to you in a choice of stains for $42. There is a fine lazy Susan dining table, round of course, and done at the moment in pine. Other made-to-order pieces include corner cupboards, a hutch and a particularly useful little record-cabinet. However, the craftsmen who work through Queenstown will make anything you need, from a simple shelf right on up.

Harmonizing with these pine or maple pieces and the rich colors of the Revolutionary War lamps, are several framed quiltings made from authentic fabrics copied from the Henry Ford museum.

Our favorite has a dark blue ticking background for a splendid American eagle enclosed in a deep pecky frame. The quilting is rich and thick, as it is in all these "pictures". Another one is a Godey's fashion plate showing a little girl and a third, a good bit later down the line of history, shows a map of Detroit's streets with a 1910 Model A Ford displayed against the map and a stalwart group of dustered motorists riding inside.

The Skilled Hand

The new Queenstown Craft Shop on Route 546 has many examples of art and craft work produced by men and women who live nearby and you may find several pieces in the Queenstown collection that you can add to your home.

Ann Gross, for instance, has contributed not only the two larger-than-life Continentals that guard the outside front door in stern and painted splendor, but she has also made, in quite a different vein, a group of ceramic pieces to show what she can do in a custom piece designed especially for you. A cigarette box, perhaps, with the symbol of your favorite sport, or the flowers that are favorite in your garden.

She has also sent the shop a few charming little street scenes of by-gone—or not so by-gone—days, one showing an old-fashioned laundry cart, and the other a scruffy old corner store.

This shop, by the way, occupies the old Hamner Electronics Building on the road between Lawrenceville and Pennington.

Ceramists and dressmakers have contributed to Queenstown, too, and you may buy a simple stoneware bowl in earthy tones of moss green and charcoal (over-proof), a charming little sphere vase in steel blue or a cheerful bigger vase like a mellow old pumpkin with gentle striations look almost like pumpkin skin.

Or, you may choose to have a gingham smock made for your kindergarten, to be ready for the first day of school next fall with monogram so it WON'T GET LOST!

Monograms have been — or will be, when you order — knit into the very fabric of a V-neck classic pullover. There are other sweaters to choose from, too, including an irresistable pink one about size two with a pale lilac blossom on the bosom.

Accessories at Queenstown include ten-inch miniature chests lined with paper in a tiny print and stained deep blue or pine on the outside; men's ties at $1.75, the Davenport Ridge real leaf jewelry and a reminder to keep your eye on the ball: a golf ball (real) with an eye painted on it.

POLITICAL SKIRT

Who's a Democrat? Poking around the cotton-and-all-that rack at The Casual Shop in Hopewell the other day, we found a gathered skirt in oyster colored homespun with "Hyannisport" printed all over it in black, combined with a charming collection of old New England houses, carriages and derly, who differs in every way from the real Rix, except in appearance. After arduous training, Airman Rix is ready to leave for Africa, but through a military mix-up, finds himself en route to occupied France. And there the fun really begins. Comment a rib tickler.

Roses for the Prosecutor (June 13-19) was a winner at the Berlin Film Festival. Its star, Walter Giller, and the screen play took first awards. The film shared honors with "The Bridge" as best full-length feature. Set in late World War II and the years immediately following, the story revolves around Pvt. Rudi Kleinschmidt, played by Giller, who is courtmartialed and sentenced to death for buying two bars of chocolate on the Dutch black market. The execution is snafued by strafing planes and Rudi escapes.

In the postwar years, Rudi becomes a street peddler and is befriended by seductive Ingrid Van Bergen, as Lissy Flemming, waitress turned restaurant owner. He meets Dr. Schramm, played by Martin Held, the man who prosecuted him during the war. Dr. Schramm is in hot water as State Prosecutor because he has allowed an anti-semetic professor to escape trial. Schramm feels he can save face by capturing Rudi. The ensuing drama is exciting and amusing. Comment: tragi-comedy with English sub-titles.

horses, flowers and such. With it, you wear a black sleeveless tuck-in shirt.

Republicans on the other side of the rack will choose the polished cotton skirt aflame with black and white cabbage roses in squares, with a sleeveless, collarless black tuck-in blouse to match.

Independents will take to a Cos Cob gold homespun blouse, hanging loose about a pair of shorts in varying stripes of gold, brown and related colors.

Wedding guests can be prettier than the bride if they wear the hats we saw on the Casual hat-racks. One is a blooming effulgence of lilac organdy with flowers rising to a magnificent crown and leaves making a frivolous brim.

More subdued souls will take the navy organdy, folded and banded with velvet to make a soft, high crown and a graceful flowing brim.

And then there's a cocktail hat, no bigger than a paper clip, in tangerine straw.

For parties, Casual suggests the polished cotton dress printed with a compote of olives, roses and limes and designed with a halter cut to the neckline. A bleack sheath has horizontal tucks alternating with lace around the middle, and a frothy white lace skirt has a black linen top and a peach velvet sash.

Half-sizes, new to this shop, include such practicalities as a straight, sleeveless seersucker with a deep neck and a short, cuffed jacket with pointed collar. Or a softly dressed-up ensemble in blue and white cross-hatching print with cool, wide neckline and a raglan jacket embellished with a flat bow and white piping.

Teens will keep warm after an ocean dip in one of those big sloppy pullovers, woven in various appealing colors. It is NOT a sweat-shirt—really. Mother!

COOL NOTE

Our Old Friend Vic. The Victor Talking Machine people, earnest about helping you enjoy summer, have produced two "Summer Festival" records (for the price of one: $4.98) bearing the musical interpretations of the Robert Shaw Chorale, Richter, Cliburn, Julian Bream, Mario Lanza and everybody else who ever recorded for Victor except that white dog. University Store, Music Department.

Columbia goes 'em one better by producing two records for $2.98, incorporating Ormandy and the Philadelphians in good old war horses like the Toreador Song, "Swan of Tuonela," "Danse Macabre" and the like. (Wonderful music-appreciation records for children, by the way.)

Which brings us (speaking of children) to rock 'n roll and Bo Diddley's music, familiar to some Princeton residents because he was here for Junior Prom and houseparties. Ray Charles has "Country and Western Music" to add to your collection.

And—this week only, the U. Store presents Triangle's "Tour de Farce" record at $2.98 instead of the usual $3.98 because Triangle is giving a Reunion Weekend performance.

Show fans will want "A Funny Thing Happened On the Way to the Forum," and "I Can Get It for You Wholesale," and "Bravo, Giovanni" (soon to be on the U. Store racks). You already have "No Strings," we presume, so why not buy one for a friend?

The Westminster Choir has the Beethoven Missa Solemnis recorded with the New York Philharmonic and Bernstein ($8) and Leontyne Price has "Aida" and the University Store has both.

Those of you who saw "The Sorcerer" and "Trial By Jury" in their Princeton productions, will want the complete D'Oyly Carte albums, and if you go to the movies, you will want Ferrante and Teicher theme records.

If you act before June 30, maybe you'll get to England, courtesy of Mantovani. The new Mantovani album is "American Waltzes" and the invitation to England is for you, if you choose the right songs for Mantovani's next album. Enter now, between waltzes.

Question of the Week

Question: Why do you think investors are losing confidence in the stock market?

Where Asked: Around town.

Paul Koether, 104 N. Stanworth Drive, vice-president, First Princeton Corporation: Because shrewd investors have been aware for some time that the market was too high based on historical price-earnings multiples and dividend yields. A government intent on greater centralization of political and economic power was the trigger which caused investors to lighten their equity holdings. Confidence in the market has been shaken by this, and investors are re-evaluating their holdings based on old-fashioned investment merit rather than nebulous "promises" of future earning power. Renewed confidence in the market will be based on the clarification of such problems as the Common Market, the continued outflow of gold, the business outlook for 1963 and "Kennedy negativism." Though it is not the function of government to perpetuate a market whose values are unreasonably high, I feel it should provide a framework within which economic growth will be fostered rather than thwarted. Such growth, with the increased wages and profits that it would bring, would rekindle confidence. I don't think inflation has been stopped and I don't think it will be. I feel holders of common stocks will be far ahead of those with fixed incomes, in the long run.

Douglas Delanoy, 62 Battle Road, retired security analyst: I'm not willing to say investors are losing confidence in the stock market as a long-range proposition. If you ask, 'Why did the stock market go down?,' there are plenty of reasons for that. First, the stock market is a free auction market and represents the emotions and hopes and fears of people all over the country and all over the world. Until about six months ago, confidence was very high. Reflecting this, stocks advanced to prices which were extremely high in the light of the long-established measurements of values. It is axiomatic that once a trend is established, the odds are three-to-one the trend will continue. Consequently when the uptrend was checked as a result of the dampening of optimism arising from a number of causes, notably a stepping up in attacks on business from official sources, including the Department of Justice, coupled with a tax program that would place foreign operation of U.S. companies at a competitive disadvantage, a downtrend set in. This was accelerated by the time-worn principle of a long pull up and a quick coast down.

William Quinlan, 354 Nassau Street, insurance underwriter: I think most investors are seeing what is merely a leveling-off period of an inflationary trend that is meeting its own level. This was probably precipitated by the administration's scare to big business, although I don't think that was the main reason for it.

Gregg Dougherty, 95 Library Place, retired professor: I think most people thought the market was too high and the psychological effect of the thing just changed. A small sell-off could have triggered the whole thing.

George J. Adriance, Carter Road, assistant vice-president, Princeton Bank and Trust Co.: I think there are several things involved. I think a lot of prices are higher than they should have been and there has been a leveling off. Secondly, there is some room for doubt as to what the economy is going to do. Statistics now show that the economy is in good shape. Still people want to know what is going to happen next year. The stock market lives in the future. Also, Kennedy's action toward the steel companies was such as to undermine seriously the confidence of business in general. I feel Kennedy triggered the decline, he didn't create it but he did create enough doubt in the minds of many as to what the administration was going to do next, or if it even knew how to handle the situation. Finally, there was an element of a snowball effect. The natural feelings of uncertainty and fear tend to feed on themselves and snowball.

H. W. Hoisington, Jr., 110 Patton Avenue, secretary-treasurer, Nassau Fund: I would say for a variety of reasons, including the following: 1) The stock market, at the end of 1961, had reached a point where price-earning ratios were high and yields were low. 2) The controversy between the steel industries and President Kennedy, regardless of how one views it politically, was an indication that inflation has slowed down considerably 3) While business is better this year than it was in 1961, it still is not quite as robust as had been expected. I might add, as a plug, that people who have invested in a balanced mutual fund as the Nassau Fund, have had a protective cushion against the decline of the market.

Richard Collins, 56 Pecan Lyne Road, Princeton Junction, advertising manager: Because of Kennedy's action toward the steel companies. He lends the impression of having a completely anti-business attitude.

tioner stopped humming or the sun seemed strangely high the next morning, considering the time told by the electric clock that many Princeton residents were aware of two powere failures that occurred during the last week.

The first black-out occurred Memorial Day night at 11:43 and the second one last Sunday at 11:26 p.m. On Wednesday, the power was on again at 12:41 a.m. and on Sunday, it came back at 1:07 a.m.

Public Service officials say that the trouble was caused by failure of an underground cable between Nassau and Wiggins on Vandeventer. A "good portion of Princeton"—the quotes come from Public Service—was affected by the power-out, and the company estimates that 1133 customers were blacked out the first time and 1683 the second.

The difference is due to the fact that the broken cable was a three-phase cable. The first time, only two of its phases blacked out, but the second time, all three went.

Lights and power came on again each time when Public Service switched to another line. At press time, the company had not yet determined the cause of the cable breakage.

FOUR INJURED, ONE DEAD In Area Accidents. Three Princeton residents were seriously injured and a native of Brooklyn killed in auto accidents during the week.

Jack Anderson, 31, 42 Mercer Street, and Donald Brown, 31, 255 Nassau Street, were admitted to Princeton Hospital following a two-car collision on Rosedale Road at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. Mr. Anderson received a fractured jaw, fractured pelvis, fractured ribs, fractured bone above his left eye and possible ruptured spleen. Mr. Brown sustained a possible cerebral concussion, multiple lacerations and contusions.

Lawrence Township police report that Mr. Anderson and Patricia LeBon, 17, Featherbed Lane, Hopewell, were both traveling west on Rosedale Road, toward Hopewell. Miss LeBon, police said, attempted to pass Mr. Anderson, and, as she did, the Anderson car tried to make a left turn into a private driveway.

Miss LeBon's station wagon hit Anderson's small, open, English-mode car broadside. Mrs. Brown, a passenger in the car with her husband, was treated at the hospital and released. Miss LeBon was treated for a lacerated chin and also released.

Police report that no charges have been made, pending a complete investigation of the accident. They have not yet been able able to talk to Mr. Anderson, they said.

Thrown 37 Feet. William Gallant, 22, 9 Erdman Avenue, a passenger in a speeding car, was thrown 37 feet when the car in which he was riding went out of control and crashed on the Princeton-Hightstown Road. The accident occurred a half hour later the same morning as the one on Rosedale Road.

Gallant was admitted to Princeton Hospital with a separation of his pelvic bones. He is on the critical list from internal injuries.

Lawrence Perks, 22, 353 Cherry Valley Road, the driver of the car told police that he was traveling between 60-70 miles per hour when he lost control of the car on a curve, Hightstown State police reported they had been in pursuit of the car for speeding prior to the crash.

The crash occured on Route 571 near the intersection of County Route 535, about midway between Princeton and Hightstown. The car hit three telephone poles and demolished an electrically-timed speed signal, police said. Gallant was thrown clear when the car rolled over and hurled 37 feet. Perks was uninjured. He was charged with careless driving.

Motorcycle Crashes. David T. Moran, 21, Patton Hall, Princeton University, received a double fracture of his right leg and fractured ribs when his BSA motorcycle went out of control and hit a fire hydrant in front of 141 Hodge Road. Police report that Mr. Moran was going too fast. He was issued a summones for careless driving.

A passenger on the cycle, Miss Moniea Swedenborg, 22, of Pretty Brook Road, received contusions of the right leg. The accident occured at 12:30 Monday morning.

Killed over the weekend was Stanley Knee, 60, of Brooklyn in a head-on-collision on the Brunswick Pike near South Brunswick. He was dead on arrival at Princeton Hospital.

The driver of the car in which Mr. Knee was a passenger wsa Frank Barht, 61, of Monmouth Junction. He and the other driver, Warren Marshall, 18, of East Brunswick, were listed in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

IT WAS DOGS AGAIN

400 Attend Hearing. After a hearing enlivened by charges of unconstitutionality, predictions of bribery and corruption and outbursts of applause, booing and occasional cheering, Township Committee tabled Thursday night its second dog control ordinance.

Approximately 400 Township residents—and at least one Borough citizen—crowded into the Valley Road School auditorium for the hearing, standing in the rear of the room, perching outside on the fire-escape or sitting on the wooden school chairs.

Early in the hearing, Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman asked the audience to restrain its boos and applause, but both manifestations broke out anyway in the course of the two and one-half hour hearing.

Committee channcied its constituents' remarks by asking people at the door to fill out slips of paper giving name, address and affiliation, if any. These names were then called from the platform in order, and when each person had spoken, the floor was thrown open to those who had not signed up to speak, and at the end, to anyone who wished to be heard again.

T. B. Fisher, 542 Snowden Lane, chairman of the Committee Against Total Restraint, said he and his committee were anxious to have vicious dogs removed from circulation, but did not believe that any ordinance could keep a dog from biting.

"I believe this ordinance is unenforceable," said Mr. Fisher. "You would need a catcher on a round-the-clock basis to enforce it."

Topics Of The Town

Mr Fisher said that the Borough had not felt the need for such an ordinance, and he concluded by urging the Township to "abandon emotionalism and hammer out a solution that will be good for us all. This is a problem which mature people should be able to solve without government help."

The charges of unconstitutionality were brought by Paul B. Diederich, 213 Snowden Lane, who said the ordinance under consideration violated the 14th amendement because it would deprive a citizen of his property—that is, of an expensive dog—without due process of law.

"It provides a perfect set-up for bribery and corruption," stated Mr. Diederich, suggesting that some dog-owners might be tempted to bribe a dog-control officer to look the other way.

He also questioned the ordinance's lack of provision for hearing before a magistrate, and said that the measure did not require the dog catcher to have proof.

"To take a walk means to be accosted by dogs at least once," said E. G. Johnson, Snowden Lane. "A reasonable control ordinance is very much in order. Other towns have them—how have they made out so well?"

"The problem exists, or people wouldn't be so worked up about it," said Frank Lewin, 113 Magnolia Lane. "I have more respect for Committee than to think its members decide by numbers alone, yet petitioners with more than 500 signatures indicate that the problem is severe and that this ordinance should be adopted."

Earlier in the hearing, when demonstrations of approval and disapproval were being made with some feeling, Mayor Fairman rapped for silence and a voice in the rear of the auditorium shouted, "This is the only way we can vote!"

"It is we, the Committee that will determine this issue," Mayor Fairman said in reply, "and we will determine it on the basis of logic."

In executive session four days later, Monday night, Committee discussed the measure for some two hours. Attorney Gordon Griffin was asked to draft a modified dog ordinance, but the modifications are expected to be so minor that they will not require another public hearing.

TWO WOMEN FINED

For Unlicensed Dogs. Miss Dorothy Skipwith, 19 Lytle Street, and Mrs. Margaret Streeter, 16 Lytle, were fined $5 and $10 respectively by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr., Monday for failing to obtain licenses for their dogs. The complainant in each case was Patrolman Donald Forward, Dog Control Officer for the Borough.

In traffic court, Gerald J. Mitchell, 32, 9 Rollingmead, was fined $10 for driving an unregistered vehicle. He pleaded not guilty.

SURVEY MONEY VOTED

For Sewers. "We're going to keep two balls in the air at the same time and we don't propose to drop either one," said Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman Monday night as Township Committee voted the money to start things going on both the Hillside Avenue and Great Road area sewers.

● Hillside: Committee unanimously voted a $19,000 emergency appropriation for the survey and design of this sewer, the work to be completed at the end of three months by Buck, Seifort and Yost, the Township's sewer consultants.

Federal money for such a survey went down the drain when the Township was told that it had to have either title to the land involved or easements in order to qualify for Federal money.

● Great Road Area: Committee introduced (Maurice F. Healy abstaining because of his position on the Princeton Day Schools board) an ordinance appropriating $130,000 to design this sewer in its entirety, pinpoint the route, give definite costs and construct part of it this year, the rest to be completed in 1963

"I'm disappointed," stated A J Cevera, 5 Hillside, champion of the Hillside residents "You are moving ahead on The Great Road and we are more desperate than they are. They could wait for their sewer, and we can't."

It was then that Mayor Fairman said the Township planned to do both at the same time and "not drop either". He told Mr. Cevera that Committee would ordinance a major portion of the Hillside sewer in 1962, and the rest in 1963.

Attorney Gordan Griffin explained to the Hillside residents that it was necessary to study the various alternative routes and systems for the Hillside sewer "in order to draw up an ordinance that makes sense."

Joseph R. Nini, Township administrator, said that the revised capital improvements plan set aside $225,000 for construction of this sewer.

We're Safe At Home

Both the Township and the Borough will receive awards for traffic safety programs next Wednesday at the fifth annual Safe Driving Award dinner of the Mercer County Association of Insurance Agents.

Mayors and police chiefs of both communities will be among the guests at the award dinner, to be held in Yardville. Seven other Mercer County municipalities will be cited by the organization.

Princeton Borough was high scorer in its classification, with 61.75 points, and Princeton Township came in second with 51.55. Awards are based on reports submitted by police departments and are given for management, enforcement, education and the engineering of traffic safety.

Questioned by Mrs. Rene Leon, Drakes Corner Road, Mayor Fairman said that the Township had in reserve the necessary funds to finance the Township's share of refurbishing the central sewer system, and that this would not affect the construction of either the Hillside or Great Road area sewers.

NORMALCY BECKONS

To Brain-Injured Boy. Mike Cullen of Hopewell is a bright-eyed young chip, age 6, who epitomizes the success of a new way to treat children afflicted with what laymen call "cerebral palsy."

Fifteen months ago, Mike walked only on his toes, pigeon-toed. His left arm protruded in a rigid spasm. His eyes were severely crossed and his manner was lethargic.

Today, his eyes are almost straight (a stranger would not notice the squint), his arm is normal, his feet still require some work, but not much, and he is a bundle of lethargic as corn in a popper.

Since February, 1961, Mike has been following the treatment patterns for brain-injured children evolved at the Rehabilitation Center and The Children's Hospital, Philadelphia. For Mike and children like him, doctors at the Center have developed a radical plan which goes straight to the root of the problem by working on the brain itself and telling it what to do.

Essentially, Mike's nervous system is being re-patterned and his brain programmed as though it were a computer.

Tools for this process are a flashlight, a pair of giant goggles, a pair of sunglasses with one empty socket, a beer advertisement, a plastic nose-bag and, most important of all, a dedicated mother and father, and Hopewell neighbors who have worked seven days a week every week for 15 months to see that Mike's treatment is a success.

The Background. Michael Cullen was a premature baby, born 10 weeks too soon. Because his nervous system had not had time to develop there were (and are) lesions in his brain which were translated into crossed eyes and rigid limbs. (A layman speaks of cerebal palsy, but the term is physiologically inaccurate. Mike's limbs are not palsied, that is shaking; they are spastic, that is, rigid.)

Mike's treatment pattern has many parts, each one of which must be relentlessly followed every single day, even when Mike has measles and a high temperature, mumps and a stiff neck or bronchitis and a sore throat.

His mother, Mrs. William Cullen, is a vigorous young woman, so excited about the new system and its results with her son that she is almost a missionary in its behalf.

Young Mike is pretty excited about it, too. ("Mother, tell what you do with my leg . . . MOTHER! TELL WHAT YOU DO!") He was also deeply impressed with the children, so much worse off than he, whom he saw at the Center in Philadelphia. "You should see the devices those children wear to hold them to the floor!" he exclaims.

Children with severe lesions must lie prone on the floor all day long to help their brains re-pattern themselves naturally. Mike, whose lesions place him 12 in a scale where 13 is perfect, need not lie prone all day, but he may not stand and he spends his waking life creeping—scooting would be a more accurate term—on hands and knees.

How It Works. The core of Mike's treatment consists of imposing on the healthy part of his brain from the outside, those patterns of bodily activity which the damaged part of the brain would do if it could. The pattern is beamed, therefore, to brain cells which would be dormant if Mike's brain were normal.

This is the way it is done. Michael lies prone on a mattress lashed to the Cullens' dining-room table. His mother stands at his head, one helper stands at his right side (perhaps it is Mrs. Ethel Goode, who lives next door) and one at his left (if the day is a Saturday, it may be the egg man).

Mrs. Cullen turns Mike's head with her hands: left cheek, right cheek, left cheek, right cheek. As she turns, the helper on the left moves Mike's arm up and across his back and flexes his leg up and back. The partner on the right does the same, alternating with the helper across the table so that Mike's left arm is up while his right is back.

The mother acts as a kind of coxswain, keeping a smooth rhythm of 40 times a minute for five unbroken minutes. ("When the phone rings," she says, "we just let it ring.")

2,000 Times. This "set" has been done four times each day since February, 1961, making about 1,800 times so far. By the end of August, when the programming will probably be complete, the tally will be well over 2,000, apparently enough to make quite an impression on Michael's young brain.

GOGGLES FOR TV: "The doctor makes me watch TV," explains young Michael Cullen, who carries out this enviable requirement by wearing a pair of giant goggles with a green left eye and a red right eye. The TV screen in the Cullen home is covered with green cellophane so that Mikes sees Sandy Becker only with the left eye. The "why" of Mike's assignment is explained on this page. (Staff Photo)

Before this "set" begins, Mrs. Cullen and a helper do warm-ups. In one of these, they call upon a pathological reflex called the Marie-Foix to do some work for Mike. Squeezing his bent legs by pressing on foot and knee, they simultaneously revolve the legs, 30 times for each one.

"These are not 'exercises'," Mrs. Cullen emphasizes. "An 'exercise' is applied directly to a limb, as in massage. These manipulations are directed to the brain itself, and they have worked so well that this Marie-Foix part is becoming very hard to do. Mike's brain is being patterned away from the pathological reflex, you see."

Words like "helper" and "neighbor" used so casually to describe how Mike's sets are given, convey no idea of the warm hearted, unceasing efforts made by Hopewell neighbors, friends and even casual acquaintances of the Cullens.

Mike's first set is done at 7 a.m. every day by Mr. and Mrs. Cullen and Mrs. Goode. Mr. Cullen has a commuter's eye on the clock. Mrs. Goode may have run across the back yard in the driving sleet of a dark morning without a cup of coffee, but she arrives in time, and Mike gets his workout.

They All Help. Sometimes the mid-day sets are done at Princeton Hospital, not because Mike needs to go there, but because the Hospital has therapists who can help.

After school, two chattering high school girls open the front door of the Cullens' big, pleasant house, and the afternoon set begins. There are many high school students, boys as well as girls, signed up to work with Mike, and they perform on a kind of unit basis, without pay and with total reliability.

Frequently, Mr. Cullen brings home a commuter who is curious to see what is going on (doing the sets requires no practice and can be easily learned) and on Saturday morning, the egg man often lends a hand—or, to be precise, two hands and a good bit of muscle.

Eyes, Too. "Tell about my eyes," Mike says. Mike is naturally left-handed, and he has to be made left-eyed, too. At first, he followed the wandering beam of a flash-light as far as his eyes could stretch, but that is old stuff now.

Today, he watches while Mrs. Cullen brings an object slowly in to his nose. At first, Mike's eyes "broke" when the object was two or three feet from his nose bridge. Now, he can hold until the object is only four inches away. When he can stay until it is two inches away—probably sometime in August—he will have normal binocular vision.

Mike reads from his first grade primer wearing a pair of sunglasses with the lenses removed. The left one is empty, and the right one has been covered with red cellophane. A green overlay covers the words in his book and combines with the red lens so that Mike cannot see out of his right eye and is forced to use only his left.

Perhaps the most spectacular of Mike's props is an electrical beer advertisement with blips of red, yellow, green and blue light that slowly arch across a screen.

("A neurosurgeon discovered it in a Las Vegas bar," says Mrs. Cullen.)

Mike follows its moving colors for ten minutes each day, but it is not his favorite pastime and he would "forget" if Mrs. Cullen did not summon him sternly from the sandbox.

"This is not an 'exercise,' don't forget," says Mrs. Cullen. "His eyes are simply being 'invited,' in the words of one doctor, to come in and function as they should.")

The plastic nose-bag is a little thing, no bigger than a pint, which is tied firmly over Mike's nose and mouth for a full minute, on the hour every hour of Mike's waking day.

By making him draw deeper breaths to get the air he needs ("not 'air,' mother," Mike says "oxygen!") the bag prods the brain into a greater capacity, and incidentally, strengthens the chest and lungs against the respiratory ailments to which children with brain lesions are peculiarly susceptible.

With August in sight down the road, the Cullens' 18 months of unceasing effort, their friends' unselfish devotion of time and the continuing cheerful cooperation of Mike himself, are about to pay the priceless dividend of physical well-being for the slim young patient.

Orthopedic surgeons may need to lengthen his leg tendons, but that is all that remains of the treatment. Mike's pediatrician is so pleased that he has sent other patients to the Rehabilitation Center and Mike himself looks forward to a big celebration when it's all over.

But he's going to miss all those friends dropping in four times every day, every day in the week.

Relationship Too "Cozy."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The supply of pure drinking water to a community is obviously one of the services most essential to public health, welfare and safety. A private water company can be tolerated only if it shows itself responsible to public authority and if it is explicitly subject to public control in matters affecting health and safety.

In Princeton the situation is precisely the opposite: the Water Company repeatedly shows its disdain of public authority and the Township Committee always dons its softest pair of kid gloves to deal with it. The relationship between our governing council and the "tight little island" which is the Princeton Water Company is indeed cozy.

This is a serious charge and is not lightly made. Witness the following six points:

1. The report of the Township Department of Health on the bad taste and odor episode of late last year is highly recommended reading. It shows the devious performance of a company whose instant concern was to save its own hide—and never mind the public health and safety. Even after receiving this damning report, the Township Committee, with indecent haste, swept the whole thing under the rug.

2. We still do not know the real facts on the drought of May 19-20 and we can depend on the Township Committee to do nothing to get us those facts. Why was Princeton worse hit than any nearby locality? Why was the engineering study of the water supply, now being undertaken, not begun a long time ago?

Apparently the company responsible for supplying us with our most essential and precious commodity simply does not believe in planning for our future—or hadn't anyone told them that Princeton is growing? What about the one million gallons per day the company is authorized to withdraw from the Canal. Was this being used and still the drought occurred?

3. Remember fluoridation two years ago? Borough and Township Boards of Health and governing councils, all four of them, after full public hearings, adopted resolutions requesting the Water Company to fluoridate. Result: open defiance by the Water Company. No fluoridation without referendum, the Company announced, adding (and this is the supreme piece of arrogance in the whole performance) that it reserved wholly to itself the right to interpret the outcome of the referendum.

In other words, until the voting was over no one would know whether 51% in favor of fluoridation would suffice, or the Water Company would require 99%! So while the city of New Haven takes its private water company into court to enforce a public policy decision, the Princeton Company luxuriates in the total security it enjoys from any kind of "interference" by our governing bodies.

4. The real test of the relationship between the Township Committee and the Water Company is who comes to whom on those rare occasions when matters get talked over. Everybody else with public business to transact comes into an open session at Township Hall. But not the Water Company—it holds court for our elected representatives in the rear of its Nassau Street office, locking out the press and the public, and announcing at the conclusion what suits its convenience to announce. What a conception of the dignity and responsibility of their elected positions this reveals on the part of the Township Committee!

5. No problem under the sun worries the Water Company less than the fact that there are several major areas in the Township where residents are not supplied with piped water and are dependent upon individual (and frequently polluted) wells. The Water Company takes no initiative and in fact for years neither it nor the Township Committee has lifted a finger to extend the water lines to these areas.

6. And what about this business of individuals filling their private swimming pools with hoses attached to public fire hydrants. I had always thought it was a serious offense to tamper in any way with these hydrants, but it must be different in Princeton because I personally have seen this happen on several occasions in the past year.

Who grants this permission? Who supplies the fire hose? Is the fire chief consulted? How is this water charged for?

Things have come to pass where the citizens of Princeton, offended at every turn by the Water Company, should demand that their governing councils lay on a full-dress investigation of the Water Company, carried out in the full sunlight of high noon, rather than behind the drawn shades of 166 Nassau Street. Where something so vital as the community's water supply is at stake, Princeton cannot countenance this unregulated monopoly, this little autocracy. It is long overdue for our two governing councils to start behaving, in their relations with the Water Company, as though they were in charge.

PTA Says Thanks.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On behalf of myself and the members of the West Windsor PTA I would like to express our sincere appreciation for your cooperation in helping us publicize our activities during the 1961-62 school year.

We believe our programs and projects were highly successful and attribute this success in no small measure to the generous space afforded us in the press.

We look forward to continuing the fine relationship which exists between our PTA and your publication when we resume activities in the fall.

Public Hearing Suggested.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter sent to the Borough Planning Board by the "Residents of Princeton."

VIRGINIA B. ERDMAN,
Chairman
8 Madison Street

"The question of the use of the open space beside upper Pyne Hall is of moment to all residents of Princeton. It raises many questions to be discussed before a decision is made.

"Should this central site be turned to commercial use? What would be the effect of such an enlargement of the central business district, in increased traffic and use of public facilities?

How much would the ensuing tax revenue decrease our total tax burden, when incidental costs are deducted? What are the alternative possibilities — a future public building, an enlarged village square, or park? What would be the total cost to the average citizen if this land were acquired for public use?

"This is a typical community problem of major public interest, now and for generations to come. It should not be settled in haste or without a thorough airing and opportunity for every citizen to voice his opinion. The "Residents of Princeton" propose a public hearing early next fall, in which all aspects of the issue can be considered."

A Dog Owner's Thoughts.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am in favor of a moderate dog ordinance, but I want to point out that to make such an ordinance feasible, dog owners must realize their responsibility for the acts of their animals, and that the community must insist upon responsible dog ownership.

The case which I wish to cite is not to be taken as an emotional moan about my lost flowers, but as a case of whether the home-owner has the privilege to garden.

I am trying to raise delphinium, which is a two-year job in this area. I managed to bring a dozen plants to maturity, and have gone to the trouble of seeing that three sides of the bed in which they are growing — on the far side of the house — are protected by fencing.

In other words, these flowers are more than easily avoided. The last of my dozen plants was broken and killed by a dog last week. I had taken the killing of the previous plants and occasional lawn-diggings as the natural hazards encountered in crowded living. The last plant had already been knocked over and staked up three previous times.

I saw this happen to my plant, and I know the dog. The owner of the dog knows what happened, and the owner of the dog has made no attempt to recognize my "loss".

This can be taken philosophically. But now I find that my neighbor is angry that I feel a loss.

I am obliged to think that the anger from the dog-owner signifies a belief that dog-ownership has a natural precedence over garden-ownership. This is this dog-owner's choice, but I believe I am entitled to another. I have trained our dog to stay out of the garden.

Although I am in favor of the moderate dog ordinance, I feel that it must be made known that if a moderate ordinance is passed, this does not signify the community's endorsement of a "dogs above all" policy. We must have teeth in the ordinance so that dog-owner responsibility can be enforced, and so that dog-owners will be made aware that they must either train or restrain their animals.

VIRGINIA C. TAYLOR
288 Western Way

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Several summers ago my family met a trailload of Herald Tribune Fresh Air youngsters arriving in Princeton for a two-week vacation.

Our guest of the previous summer was there. June, age 9, was quickly swept up by my girls and brought up to date on our latest pets, new home and old friends.

We looked about for the little boy who would share a room with our small son Jorge was so small and frail we had difficulty locating him among the throngs of laughing and talking children. He was only 5 but his hair had recently been combed and he insisted on carrying his own suitcase. His large brown eyes showed caution and fear, and he spoke not a word all the way home and during dinner

That evening he followed me into my garden and managed to get lost in ours and our neighbors' half-acre lots. Almost an hour passed before he was found with tear-filled eyes several houses away. I was certain this child would ask to go home but he said nothing.

By the end of his two week visit he had learned to swim, enjoy a bedtime story and ride a two wheeled bicycle. (He didn't know about brakes at first and swiftly fell off when he wanted to stop!)

My children and I have learned from these childrens' visits that we are looking forward to meeting the train again when Jorge and June will arrive.

Other families may share our experience by inviting a Fresh Air Child, either June 28 or July 13. Call Mrs. John Lasley, WA 4-5157.

SPORTS In Princeton

YALE HERE SATURDAY

For Traditional Game. In the renewal of a series that dates well back into the last century, Yale's baseball team will play Princeton Saturday on Clarke Field. The game will begin about 3:15, following the annual alumni p-rade and ceremonies ranging from community singing to the throwing out of the first ball by the Class Boy of 1957.

If the weather is as torrid as it has been on other June Saturdays, there may be little to hold the crowd beyond the first three or four innings. Princeton's baseball fortunes have been at an extremely low ebb this spring, and any repitition of the six-error games of which the Tigers have been guilty will chase the old grads back to their reunion tents in droves.

The calibre of play was a good deal better at New Haven last Saturday, the Orange and Black committing only one error. It did not figure in the scoring. Another error of judgment was more costly, resulting in the second Yale run of a 2-0 victory.

With two out in the fifth, sophomore hurler Gerry Skey walked a pair and a single scored the lead runner. Princeton infielder Larry Schonfeld was charged with interferenee as the second Yale runner arrived at third base, and the latter was waved home.

The Tigers were held to three hits, threatening only in the first when Roger Hoit led off with a double but was eventually stranded. The loss was their 13th in 23 games

Skey is the likely choice to work the game Saturday as Princeton seeks to salvage one of the three contests this season against the Bulldogs. Games with Colgate here Wednesday and Lafayette at Easton Thursday were on the midweek schedule.

Saturday's contest marks the anniversary of the game which saw Clarke Field dedicated in memory of the coach who directed Praneton teams for so many years four and five decades ago. It was on that occasion that Princeton shoved across four runs after two were out and the Elis had two strikes on the next batter. The Tigers finally won, 9 to 8

Over the years, the brand of ball played by the two colleges has gradually faded from the high level of ability displayed in the early decades of the century. So has spectator interest: in the 20's, crowds of 2000 were normal on a Saturday afternoon at University Field, whereas today there are less than 200, counting the kids and the dogs.

IVY INN WINS AGAIN

To Stay Undefeated. After winning its first three games with relative ease, the Ivy Inn, Princeton's lone entry in the Trenton East Pitch Softball League, had to go an extra inning to defeat Lalor Amoco fest. Joe Castora contributed a grand slam and had a perfect night at the plate for ORC, but Vunee Crivelli homered twice for the winners.

RCA Laboratories evened its record at 2-2 with a 15-4 trouncing of Columbian Car-

Friday, 1-0. As a result of its victory, Ivy is now the only undefeated entry in the eight-team league

Harry Kahny, who was the winning pitcher in the first three games, one a perfect no-hitter, this time limited his opponents to three hits and struck out nine. In his first four starts, he has averaged 11 strikeouts per game.

Ivy won the game in the bottom of the eighth when it loaded the bases on an infield hit by Kahny and successive bunt singles by Dan Sculerati and Bobby Cook. Kahny was out at the plate on a force play but Jack Petrone hit a fly deep to right, Sculerati scoring the winning run easily after the catch. Cook had two of Ivy's seven hits.

Ivy will try to keep its record unblemished Thursday evening at the expense of Pete's Bar. It will play Lit Brothers Tuesday to mark the end of the first quarter of play. All games are played under the lights at Trenton's Hetzel Field.

ETS STILL LEADS

In Softball League. A 12-5 victory over Engineering Research Center kept Educational Testing Service uabeaten in Business League softball last week, the triumph also raising pitcher Jack Dilworth's personal record to 3-0.

A four-run outburst in the fifth paved the way for the defending champion's triumph. Art Becker and Jack Rhubart led the ETS attack in that inning.

Gulton Ortholog and Electro-Mechanical Research moved into a tie for second place as both won their games. Gulton used the six-hit pitching of Jess Hewitt to top Industrial Reactor Laboratory, 10-3, and EMR handed Opinion Research its third loss in as many starts. In a 15-13 slug-

ELEVEN TO GRADUATE From Football Squad. To put matters a little bluntly, the weakest football class in almost three decades will receive its diplomas in front of Nassau Hall on Tuesday. Not since 1935 have the losses by graduation been so small on the Princeton gridiron scene.

Of the 11 players who have completed their careers, only four held starting positions in the final game against Dartmouth. All were linemen; four others departing held similar positions and three were backs.

By positions, end will be hardest hit. In the class of 1962 are Henry Large and Jim Hunter, regulars last fall, and Allen Zink and Olin West, the latter a starter until he was injured.

Two other linemen saw action as regulars, Captain Ed Weihenmayer, a highly dependable guard despite his frequent injuries, and Andy Conner, a standout 215-lb. tackle. Center Bob Vandervoort and linebacker Phil Carlin are others who have completed their football careers.

Of the three backs, Roger Hoit will be missed for his fine punting. A Princeton Country Day School alumnus, Hoit was used as a "wild card" last fall when an injured shoulder prevented his seeing action as a safety man and tailback.

Wingback Charlie Phillips and quarterback Penn Laird fitted into the picture in reserve capacities. Like most of the others departing, however, the high quality of replacements at hand will make the limited losses less keenly felt than in any year during the post-war era.

BOGIA SCORES TWICE

In State Track Meet. Princeton High School scored six points in the annual State track meet Saturday at Rutgers Stadium in New Brunswick. Co-captain Tom Bogia accounted for all of the Little Tigers' points by coming in second in the 220 event and fourth in the 100 in competition among Group 3 schools

ONE OF 11: Ed Weihenmayer, football captain, heads list of Tiger players who will end their Princeton careers with graduation on Tuesday.

Three other performers who represented PHS at New Brunswick — John Bensinger, Jim Norris and George Russo —failed to score. Over 200 high schools throughout the state competed in five classes. The large number of contestants lengthened the meet and made it difficult to pace the athletes, reported PHS coach Jerry Groninger.

"We ran our first trial at 10.45 and finished up at five minutes to seven," said Groninger. "It was a long day. Our biggest problem was to find shade to keep the boys from burning up in the heat."

PEMBERTON, BOGIA WIN

PHS Sports Awards. Charlie Pemberton received the Best-All-Around Athlete award at Princeton High School's final Awards Assembly Monday afternoon in the school auditorium. The Jerry Cypress Award, presented for the first time, went to Tom Bogia.

The best all-around award is presented to the athlete who has participated in at least two sports, has exemplified good sportsmanship and commendable citizenship. Pemberton was a standout fullback for the Little Tiger football team for the past two years, scoring four touchdowns in one game last fall. He also played forward on the varsity basketball team which posted a fine 16-3 record this year.

The Cypress Award was presented in memory of Jerry Cypress, a member of the PHS track team who died in an accident two years ago. It goes to the boy who has done the most for track in the past year and who possesses qualities of character, leadership and sportsmanship. The first recipient of the award, Tom Bogia, co-captain of the team, had just set new marks in the 100 and 220-yard events at the Central Jersey Meet at Asbury Park. His times also bettered both school records that had stood since 1953.

Varsity, junior varsity and freshman numerals were awarded to members of the track, tennis and baseball teams. For all three spring sports, a total of 41 varsity, 47 junior varsity and 47 freshman awards were presented. For all sports throughout the year, 111 varsity letters, 126 JV and 113 freshman P's were awarded, according to Joseph Jingoli, athletic director. The grand total of 350 athletic awards is an unusually high number for a school this size to present in one year, said Jingoli.

Team Bats .209. Final averages for the team as a whole reveal that it collected 76 hits in 363 at bats for a .209 average, had 36 runs batted in, committed 64 errors and scored 51 runs while its opponents were scoring 80, in 14 games. Of those 14 games, the Little Tigers won four.

The leading hitter of the team was captain-elect Ray Britton with a .386 average. He was followed by Gregg Stett at .333. The only other players to hit over .200 were captain Dave Lanning, .237; sophomore first baseman Jimmy Case, .272; and freshman outfielder Paul Walstad. Jack Walstad, senior brother of Paul, hit only .189 but scored the most runs—11.

The Blue and White's four victories were divided among three pitchers. Dave Shields, used only as a relief pitcher, had a 1-0 record.

The workhorse of the staff, Jimmy Quinn, won two, including a no-hitter, and lost six. Gregg Stett, followed with 1-3 and Tom Stemmle was 0-1. Inexperience on the mound was perhaps the biggest problem that coach Harry Zoll was forced to come to grips with this season.

AMERICAN LEAGUE WINS

In Midget Baseball. A 12-3 victory was recorded by the American League All-Stars over their National League counterparts in the annual Memorial Day Game staged by the Midget Baseball League. Action took place on Van Dyke Field at Avalon Place.

A bases-loaded triple by Dick Merkt, the winning pitcher, gave the victors a quick lead in the first inning, and they ran in front all the way. Merkt was credited with three hits in four trips to the plate, while Tom Yoder went two for three.

For the losing National Leaguers, Dean Sutton hit a triple and Sandy Campbell a doube and single. Erich Schwenker and Joe Barclay were the National League battery.

John Fitzpatrick managed the winning team and William Barclay the National League All-Stars. Commissioner Robert C. Decker tossed out the first ball.

A Boy Scout color guard of Mark O'Donoghue, Robert McCarthy and John Barclay of Troop 56 and Peter Stevens of Troop 43 opened the ceremonies. Trumpeters Albert Cook and Mat Nicoll played the national anthem. Umpires for the game were Bruce Ferguson, Barney Hoisington and Alvin Anderson.

DEDICATION PLANNED

For Community House. Near demise ten years ago, the 64-year old Rosedale Presbyterian Chapel on Carter Road will mark its complete rejuvenation on Sunday at the dedication of its new community house The Rev. Since 1952, when the trustees proposed to disband the Chapel which had been closed for five years, an ever-growing number of members have assisted the original group of dissenters in revitalizing the church. The Chapel building, containing a memorial window given by Grover Cleveland, has been restored and enlarged, more than two acres of land have been acquired, and a full religious program is now in operation. The expansion program, including the new community house, has cost $50,000 over and above the free labor supplied by Chapel members

A TRIBUTE TO PERSEVERANCE: Rosedale Chapel's new community house is a tribute to the tenacity of a small band of Chapel members who refused a decade ago to allow the church to be disbanded. The building, larger than the Chapel, will be dedicated on Sunday.

Two thousand dollars is still needed to provide for all necessary appliances and fixtures.

The building committee is composed of Harold Tindall, chairman, Hans G. Hasenkamp, George C Young, Mr. Boetsma and Mr Buchanan. Other leaders include Dr. D. W. Edwards, clerk of session; Victor Cacavio, grounds and buildings committee; elders George A Hough, Mrs John W. Wharf and Mrs. C E Young; and deacons Mrs. John N. WORLD SERIES TO START

Monday in Midget League. About the only question that remains to be answered in the final week of play in the YMCA Midget Baseball League is who will meet the National League Giants in the Midget World Series, the Indians or the Tigers. The series is scheduled to start Monday at 6.15 at the YMCA Field; the second game is set for Wednesday at Van Dyke Field.

In the National League, the Giants have the number one position all to themselves with an 8-0 record. They are the only unbeaten team.

In the American, the Indians and Tigers entered the final week with identical 7-1 records. That deadlock will be broken Friday when the two will oppose each other at Marquand Park, starting at 6.15. Friday will be the last day of regular play.

The standings:

American League

	W.	L.	Pts.
Indians	7	1	36
Tigers	7	1	36
Red Sox	3	5	20

HOSPITAL TO BENEFIT

From Horse Show and Fair. Mercer Hospital's fourth annual Horse Show and Fair will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17, at the 112th Field Artillery grounds off Lawrenceville Road on Eggerts Crossing Road, Trenton.

In addition to the horse show, now grown to two complete days, an Antique and Classic Car Show will be held Saturday at the fair grounds of the fund-raising event. The cars, entered by more than 100 exhibitors, will compete for 33 trophies. Several events are designed to show the skill of the old-time autos and their drivers.

Saturday's horse show will include western, parade and saddle events. Sunday's events will consist of the traditional hunters and jumpers. Governor Richard J. Hughes, honorary chairman of the horse show, will be present Sunday to award the Governor's Trophy.

New features this year will be a clothesline art exhibit by the Woosamonsa art group of Princeton, a pet show and a beautiful child contest. The pet show is open to entries of children up to 14 years of age and every participant will receive an award. The beautiful child contest will be divided into two classes: 18 months-three years; and 4 through 6. Both these events will be held on Sunday.

Other events on the midway will include demonstrations by the Trenton police K-9 corps, costume judging of auto show participants, fashion, judo demonstration, variety show and a demonstration by the Princeton Dog Obedience Club.

The program will start at 9 both days. Admission to the grounds is $1. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

IVY INN LOSES, 2-1

To Old Hights Hotel. After winning its fourth straight game, 1-0, Ivy Inn had the tables turned on its as it lost its first game of the year Monday evening by one run to Old Hights Hotel. The score was 2-1.

Ivy pitcher Harry Kahny had a no-hitter going until the sixth inning when the winners bunched all three of their hits, none of them going past the infield. A high chop to the pitcher's mound and two infield bunts loaded them up. Then an overthrow to third base that carried into the outfield permitted two runs to score.

Ivy, which was also limited to three hits by pitcher Joe Fischer, bunched two of them in the third frame when it scored its lone run. Kenny Luck singled, advanced to third on two passed balls, and scored on a sacrifice fly Catcher Joe Toto followed with a triple for the best hit of the game but he died on third.

Kahny struck out seven in losing his first in five games. The defeat dropped Ivy into a first-place tie with Old Hights. Pete's Bar is a half game back with a 3-1 record.

TRYOUTS LISTED

For Athletic Club. The Princeton Athletic Club baseball team will hold tryout practices Monday and Tuesday at 6.30 on the Princeton High School Field.

The practices will be under the direction of Tommy Petrone, manager. Petrone played shortstop on the Gettysburg College freshman team this spring.

BASIC HOUSE, ADDED ATTRACTIONS

Originality of design is not a feature of this house, but extra attractions there definitely are. The grounds (brook big enough to babble but small enough for safety, shade trees and dogwood, rustic terracing) are rather special. Outstanding inside is the oversize family room with fun use of old beam and panelling. The whole house (3 bdrms., pretty liv. rm., din. rm, good kitchen, hideaway den) is spic and span. Convenient area is also a good one; price is down for a quick sale; you might even do better than $32,000

TWO LINE TEASERS:

APPEALING THREE BEDROOM RANCH: In Lawrence Township. Good kitchen, 2 acres, other pluses. $21,500

SPACE FOR THE PRICE, excellent condition. 4 bdrms., 2 baths, huge liv. rm. with corner f.p. $25,500

PRE-REVOLUTIONARY PRINCETON CHARMER (or could be again!) reduced for quick sale. Convenient location. $25,000

HOUSES IN THE $40,000's—we have an unusually large selection of all types & sizes. Come choose.

"THAT OLDER HOUSE NEEDING WORK" which is so in demand. 11 rooms, spacious grounds. West End. $50,000

BUILT FOR THE AGES, stone & frame house on wooded 1½ acres near town. 4 bdrms., den, playroom. $59,500

LOVELY OLD BRICK HOUSE, 12 acres of good land with pond. Needs fixing up but should be a good investment. $62,500
